

Chateau de Costis

Bordeaux Rouge

Estate grown and bottled

Laurent Mazeau's Great grandfather was a fireman in Paris. He married Adeline Saborin, daughter of a dairy farmer and together they created one of Paris' first wine and cheese tasting bars. After WWI they prospered by selling wine and cheese wholesale in post war Paris. They bought several Bordeaux estates including Chateau Lascombes. Years later their granddaughter married René Mazeau. By 1950s they owned 80 hectares, 2 teams of oxen, 6 horse and supported 25 households. An additional estate was purchased in 1971, that was Chateau Costis. Today the family, Laurent and his 4 sons manage various holdings including Château Bel-Orme.

Chateau de Costis is made from 40% Merlot, 35% Cabernet Franc, 25% Cabernet Sauvignon planted in Argilo- Calcaire, Argilo-silica, and gravel typical of the Entre-deux-Mers of Bordeaux. This is an amazing Bordeaux that over-delivers for its price and is consistently recommended by the French Guide Hachette.
